HONG KONG DERMATOLOGY SYMPOSIUM 2022

Welcome Message

This Symposium serves to bring together academicians and specialists of different subspecialties who all share a common interest in skin and sexually transmitted diseases.

Over the past 17 years, our function has gained recognition and popularity in the medical field. It is now a major annual event in the local community. Each year, the Symposium attracts well over 300 participants.

This year, we are very glad to have several specialists in other fields to share with us their expertise. They are microbiologist Prof. Paul KS CHAN, who will update us on Human Papilloma Virus and Vaccines; chemical pathologist Prof. Nelson LS TANG will enlighten us on Genetics and Skin Diseases; pediatrician Dr. David LUK and Dr. James Wesley CHENG who will share their experience with us on managing Infantile Hemangioma and Pediatric allergic contact dermatitis.

Among local dermatologists, I am very much indebted to Dr. Christina SM WONG, Prof. Agnes WS CHAN, Dr. Stephanie NG, Dr. KWAN Chi Keung, Dr. CHENG Hok Fai and Dr. HO King Man who kindly share their experience with us in the management of various common and important skin diseases. The titles of their talk are listed in the scientific program. I would also like to express my gratitude to Dr. LO Kuen Kong, Dr. CHENG Tin Sik and Dr. NG Shun Chin for their help in chairing the sessions.

Finally I would like to thank our sponsors as well as the audience who have been supporting this function all these years and contributed to its success.

I wish you to enjoy the meeting and learn some useful knowledge for your daily practice.

Dr. LUK Nai Ming,

Organizing Committee
